

The Woman Question

Intro

The Greatest Dichotomy

If you grew up in the new millennium years of 00's and 10's then you have undoubtedly been taught that there is nothing different between the sexes other than the makeup and function of the genital regions or humorous anecdotal stories pertaining to them. This is pushed so heavily as to make sure that society can be dominated through unregulated base emotions and consumerism. A feminine society is more subject to cultural decay and collapse, benefitting the rich and foreign powers. This is focused towards boys in their formative years so they might be weakened and abandoned during their working age. To be able to control the class of working men is to be able to change the entire course of a society. The legal system in a plethora of western countries is now made to reflect a feminine ideal rather than an objective one. This by proxy forces a vast majority of men to be disenfranchised from investing into the country they occupy and renders them worthless. Why should they work to achieve or solidify masculine traits if they are taught throughout life that they are old and antiquated ideas which are inherently oppressive?

Chapter I

Male vs Female

“The ‘Greatest Dichotomy’ in the world which runs through all our societies and culture is that of Male and Female. It divides everything we encounter throughout the human experience.” - Hunter

Section 1

Male Honor

Men only strive for greatness when they have proven rewards to reap in front of them. It stirs the hunger for progress and pushes them to become extremely disciplined and focused into one dimension of their life, which is often work. But when you take that away from men, they will start to become weak and/or drop from society. The quality of women has been stagnant and recently begun to steadily decline. But even still, if the quality of women continues to fall while women's standards become increasingly unrealistic due to vanity and materialism; The intensity of this 'quality and standards' gap will expand even more. It is no longer that the 60-40 rule applies when dealing with distribution of women among men. The skew now accounts for a distribution of 80% of the women being courted by the top 20% of the males in the long term. The culture and more importantly the legal system has been twisted so much to disregard truth and reality. Women are lied too about femininity and what it truly means to be a woman, therefore, we get a female with values that are instead masculine in nature. The expectations of males in this picture are without warrant due to the entire structural system that is under them becoming detrimental. There is a growing quantity of positions of duty left vacant while a second-class male (masculine female) tries to execute the role. The old adage has become the epitome of feminism, though, slightly changed: Honor is dead and women killed it.

Section 2

Female Innocence

The ego of women has inflated to such a high level that they believe not only to be more attractive than most men. But they believe they are more of a ‘human’ than most men. They think of men as second-class, while being second class men. That is why women are flagrant with their purity and "trade up" in relationships constantly. Even though the man she traded too more than likely sees what her past has entailed. The delusions of women have grown at such an alarming rate that statistically 49% of women at 30 years of age will be barren and single. Fourth wave feminism teaches that their actions should be equal in worth and mimic those of men in any circumstance. Hence, they will not understand feminine ideals because they have been told they only exist as being second class due to the legal systems in the western world; When the opposite is true, the legal system favors the female sex in each way. It also teaches to take on the same burdens and responsibilities to acquire success as men do. Hence, they will not have the alluring female charm, or the softness femininity provides, because they are told to be individualistic. Women of modern times are raised by bitter women who despise men or a woman who has assumed dominance in the relationship and treats the male like a stepping stool. Hence, there is no definition to being a wife or a feminine mother. This is all an epidemic of the loss of female innocence and integrity.

Section 3

Order vs Chaos

Both adolescent male and female originate in objectivity, but must mature out of this to become fully functional adults. Men are inherently superjective and create what “Will Be” or also termed as “making order”. Women are in turn inherently subjective, meaning they hyper focus on what “being as feeling” is through emotional chaos. The measurable destructive cycle is most present in a nation state’s cultural policy decay, easily showing, that women live in a world that men created; But also, completely made into being from the chaos instilled in women, by the men who so tamed them. As of recently the crisis has become that far too many of the youth both male and female are stuck within the objectivity of life, withholding venturing out. This is a socially stunted growth pattern for both sexes through different mediums. Missing specific social queues of how to engage the opposite sex in a good faith manner can be measured by the outrage of the sex making the complaints. When a legal system favors something outside of objectivity, it is then we receive an amalgamation of tacked on intricacies of the opposite sex. Ergo, the only true cohesiveness is from an engaged unit of peoples, from the bonding of purpose through the order made of the chaos.

Chapter II

Ethics of Beauty

“There is no other point in sexual history, in which average men have had such an easy access to young pretty women who are dancing, bouncing around and openly flaunting their bodies on savable video in 4k resolution.” - Hunter

Section 1

Male Lust

Males have always been the arbiters of choosing partners that they deem to be more physically attractive, which is normally determined by a symmetrical & soft appearance; This is usually denoted as feminine mystique. This is a more basic function of the amygdala in the male brain, which initiates a screening process of the females who would be able to breed substantially with a heightened immunological system. The prefrontal cortex sequences all this information and moves forward to engage said breeding partner at whatever cost in so far as it is not overtly detrimental to obtain them. This is where the term “blind love” is derived from. A testosterone filled limbic system paired with an engaging prefrontal cortex while protected by a strong immune system is the foremost powerful source of movement in the world. We term all of this into “Male Lust” while conglomerating it with all the fetishistic sexual desires and perversions that are anchored to it. In order for this machination of the greatest dichotomy to exist as a fully functional drive-shaft, there must be a societal goal of honor and glory to be channeled normally through a native coalesced group sense of pride. Otherwise, the entire system fails through degeneration and corruption of the male prefrontal cortex. The amygdala shrinks in size and will consistently push out cortisol levels that is conducive to stress and an uncultivated focus. Thus, skewing the natural selection process of the female strata through a lack of pattern recognition and symmetry detection. The unbridled sexual tunnel vision of an unchecked limbic system will do the most damage to a society so irrevocable, causing a nation to collapse and a people to erode.

Section 2

Female Modesty

The peak of female excellence is that of a retained innocence from childhood and a view of self-worth displayed through modesty. Thus, the feminine image is crafted carefully to maintain a high value until motherhood, which allows the female to transfer her effort from self-grooming towards child rearing. Females who miss their fertile stage in life end up permanently stuck in their adolescent image crafting; That, not only creates hypersensitivity to disgust but also masculine tendencies. A child that was conceived with the male she has pair bonded with has the greatest ability to temper the overwhelming emotion and image obsession of a female. Each child that is born after will temper the female further and allows her to craft a new image from the adequacy of her loyalty to her children. This half of the greatest dichotomy to exist is that of a regulating support role to the male limbic system. It provides basic needs for its other half so that it may move forward on creating and bringing order to the world. These actions are motivated by the need to sacrifice for the care of the children the female is now charged with. The female solicits herself completely to her pair bonded mate to acquire protection and supply for her children. This is the only pathway for a woman to obtain a completely fulfilled existence; The structure is all the same, but in modern times surrogates are used for all 3 pillars. The government surrogates for a providing male and pets surrogate for real children and finally, created internet personas or created self-proclaimed identities to surrogate for motherhood.

Section 3

Dancing Lessons

Lack of cooperation between the sexes currently is astounding to say the least. There seems to only be advice on how to have aversion to the opposite sex. Popular feminist and MRA theory is to preach that you must not work with or show vulnerability to the opposite sex at all. While misguided romanticists advise putting all of your effort into showing vulnerability, this is also termed as “over-communication”. Sadly, we have all forgotten how to dance with each other or even what learning to dance together feels like. The relationship will fail if one of the partners either avoids or forces growth together. The dance must be allowed to encompass the whole song and to be matched by the inertia of the interwoven partner. Without this dynamic playing out between the sexes it creates a stifled one-sided relationship which benefits either the male or female, specifically tailored to that sex. The biggest roadblock is that of the fear mongering pumped into how a couple functions, no matter the validity of some claims, it will only serve to damage the relation. The dance cannot continue until there is an objective and representative legal system that reflects a level playing field.

Section 4

SSRI Candy

Mental health is a modern-day topic that has become overly rampant when considering anything about a person. It is merely label farming and anti-natal in its truest nature. Though there is truth when talking on the subject as to how these new generations in hyper wealthy economies have become essentially brain damaged from designer drugs and basic drugs. The epidemic is started even at birth when your mother is given drugs to facilitate an easier and more pain free birthing process. These drugs inhibit an infant’s brain development and is even further deteriorated if the mother was recently vaccinated. Just as if your mother was consuming heroin or alcohol it would result in fetal alcohol syndrome or down syndrome, the same is true for vaccination causing autism. Autism in infants also coincides with the mother’s age when giving birth, as the fertility problem after the age of 25 increases. But the worst of these labeling effects comes straight from the pharmaceutical companies making quick profits off modern-day delusions. Some 72% of females over the age of 18 in the developed western world are taking some kind of mental drug designed by a chemist to make their sadness go away. This increases psychosis and BPD in most of these women and even infertility. The same thing is induced by birth control pills, it can lead to those effects but more importantly, it will damage how females view ideal mating partners. If a female is on SSRIs and is taking birth control, she is more likely to take a more feminine and dysgenic breeding partner whom she is more likely to abandon.

Chapter III

The Open Market

“Women have become drastically encompassed by carnal desire and do not understand how to control it.” –
Aaron Clarey

Section 1

Incels & Femcels

The real secret is that there is no such real thing as either term as they are used colloquially. The so termed “incel” population is inherently small which should be obvious by the name -- Involuntary Celibate. Most of the young men who aren't having sex are those who are choosing to be celibate. Even if by their own account they are treated unfairly and being passed over by women. They idealize women still in a romantic tint as there is no such woman that fits how they envision women should be. No matter how true their situation is or observation of the subject at large. This is once again an example of Bolsheviks and feminists controlling language. They label people as incels who aren't regularly having sex but might occasionally do so or someone who might have experienced sex a handful of times. But even still, if you are having sex regularly, they will claim this woman is not valuable enough, by proxy calling her ugly and/or fat so that the sex doesn't register and is degrading. The whole idea is based on a feminist supposition that the more sex you have the more 'mature' or 'experienced' you are in life and should be looked up too; Even furthermore if it is with a variety of partners. Females cannot be incels due to them controlling sex and not having the same trials as males, they also do not experience emotion as men do; A female must be irrevocably ugly, used, unstable and unkempt to achieve such a status which does not occur naturally.

Section 2

USDA Graded Beef

This highlighted main problem with western women is that they have lost touch with reality through their over inflated vision of self-worth and criterion of measurement. This is widely due to the worship of women by weaker men and the female sex recently being put into a higher legal standing than that of the male counter-part. Due to the fourth wave of feminism and the general hand-rubbing that pushes this, it creates all modern problems between the sexes. The only way to counter this at all is to not commit to western women; There is almost no point in doing so in the current era. The percentage of women who think too highly of themselves is roughly 85%. The percentage of the skew of women rating themselves over the appropriate threshold is roughly 67%. IE: A woman who is a 5 objectively on a 1-10 scale will rate herself as a 7-9 due to things that have no real effect on the scale. Her percentage above the objective rating is roughly 35% or a 3.5 WEIS (Women's Ego Inflation Scale) score. The higher the score is the more delusional and broken she is as a person. A woman who is a viable partner has no more than a 2.0 WEIS score. In other words, if you find a woman that you might enjoy, it is pertinent to find out her position on the WEIS. If it is higher than viable, consider breeding her and leaving her behind. It is the only way to fix things twofold. The legal system surrounding women, also women's own knowledge and behavior.

Section 3

Energy Shift

When actively searching for a partner the personality requirements is just a matching of energy. Typically, the advice given to males is to be the baseline while your female exerts high or low amounts of energy. This idea is given from a female insight in how to date but fundamentally does not understand why it creates passive and emasculated males. If the female has the “energy” in the relationship then it creates a “mystique” for the male. This point of view is often why you hear common girls say they like a guy with mystery and a traumatic past that makes him a passionate lover. This is a complete flip in the social dating dynamics between the genders. It creates confused dating expectations but mostly breeds extreme dating exploitation from both sexes. As a result, there is no stability in modern relationships and is actually more beneficial to the top percentage of males, everyone else loses. The classical roles require that the male be the energy of the relationship, due to his corrective and leadership role. The female needs to be baseline when committing to her role because she must temper the male in a feminine way. When the male reacts to an action from the inside or outside of the relationship it must be controlled but not restricted, as the male gains dominance through his more powerful reactions. Furthermore, the male must communicate with the female through this energy as she will be the “emotion” of the relation, meaning she understands easier through the power of the male’s reactions which she might call “emotional”.

Section 4

Return to Monkey

Both sides claim that the other has changed and are not what they should be. This is only true in that the basic neurological functions of both genders are now no longer kept in check by law or societal normalcy. They have degenerated in the truest sense of the meaning, reducing themselves to their more basic limbic and pathological forms. With nothing in place regulating the gender roles in a society, mass unrest will ensue and politics will generate reflecting our imperfections. This also has the propensity to accelerate art into degeneracy and the decadency of a population to increase exponentially. Mystics and intellectuals disappear first as they are deemed not worthy of continuation because of sheer blindness to real creativity by those who would swing the scythe through their necks. You can see it as sexual freedom continues to rampage and to cleanse the population of the absolute bottom of all hierarchies. This is a highly volatile mode of both eugenics and genocide, as what is selected for is not REAL immunological strength and symmetrical beauty, but only that of an uninhibited and over-hungry limbic system.

Chapter IV

Assemblywomen

“I’ve never met anyone who had this experience, where a hot girl cooked for them and made their life less miserable.” – Sam Hyde

Section 1

Simp Culture

The monetization of a female’s social capital has produced the most incubated and isolated generation ever to disgrace the earth. Without proper cultural values the hierarchies of men have become subservient to the lavish lifestyles of overly sheltered females. The influencer age of the internet has made it possible for women to sell their bodies on a mass market scale. Whole platforms have become dedicated to being softcore porn websites to satisfy the droves of atomized men. The softer the women make themselves to be reflects directly on the number of men she controls through her perceived social value. If the females at the top of these influencer hierarchies choose to make social commentary, hordes of males’ flock to protect her words and even materialize the change she wants with absolutely no denigration to her integrity. These so-called men are not abstract thinkers and have resigned to their base instincts of impulse, which has been hyper-feminized. This has made most men born after 1990 consumerist and completely devoid of testosterone. The culture of today in the west originates from the 1920 suffrage movement lead by Khazarian women, which enshrined the 19th amendment to the constitution.

Section 2

Fake Competition

Due to corporations hiring through Affirmative Action and Title 9 practices, women sharing the work place with men has forced another level of competition that is inaccessible to men entirely. Big corporations’ hand out high paying salaries to these mostly bloat positions within a vertical company. It is impossible for men to achieve these highly designated positions (IE: HR Departments or likewise) or at parallel in salary within the same company, but also, it impairs the mostly labor jobs that regular men do at entry level by forcing it to be low in wages comparatively. For example, a man whom would be a regular laborer could afford most everything in his life because there were fewer rungs on the ladder above him. The job market has inflated with fake jobs and bloated salaries that do not correspond with the work being done. This also occurs at the bottom end as well, because jobs are created to employ those women who have no work experience and are otherwise worthless into typical secretarial government jobs which are in parallel with jobs for men that do require experience or technical knowledge.

Section 3

Power of Rape

In an indecent and hyper-sexualized society, rape is sought after by both sexes for the same reason. The only difference being that women seek it from men whom they deem to be idealistically masculine in a sexual form, which is determined by a rippling/towering physique, cut jawline and broad shoulders. Men only fantasize about rape due to power cravings and forced celibacy, which becomes intensified through the amount of skin showing or tight form fitting clothes on a female's body. Rape only becomes idolized in this way when the female impulse is allowed to run wild. Even now the definition of rape has become violently stretched to what should be classified as mild sexual harassment or merely being an inconvenience to a woman. This allows for a deeper examination of the female psyche when over exposed and over stimulated. Because she has sexually freed herself and is obtusely aware of what it means subconsciously. She often feels like too many men look at her and commit "eye rape" and will continue-on to label these men as creeps, incels or sexual predators. She claims to not understand the obvious cognitive dissonance that is occurring but in fact it is an implicit statement of her dominance assertion over certain groups of men in order to elevate her "free" position in life. It is formed in order to gain a simp population who will protect and maintain her flagrant lifestyle.

Section 4

THE WALL

The sexual market value (SMV) of the sexes exists at the extreme opposites of each other, which garners the importance of purity for females and the importance of experience for males. The female starts with all her market capital and males start with no market capital. This is due to females having a fixed number of eggs that she will produce and slowly lose through menstrual cycles, meaning at a younger age females have a higher quality of fertility directly after puberty. For males it is the opposite, males produce millions of sperm after puberty starts, meaning quality and quantity does not go down until a noticeable health decline happens, which is normally around the age of 50. The male's market capital comes from the experience of enduring life's various dangerous and taxing circumstances. This allows the male to acquire mates that are willing to sacrifice their eggs to the male out of the need to produce children before all her eggs have been spent. Because of this dichotomy women hit four walls in their ages that correspond with their SMV. Most females go through puberty by the age of 15 at which their SMV is the absolute highest. The age of 20 is typically the peak of beauty for most females and must deal with a decline in attractiveness each year thereafter. By the time they hit 25 many problems are faced if the female is not partnered and/or has not produced offspring, these women are known as the undesirables. Finally, at the age of 30 is the ultimate decline for all women, infertility issues are abundant after this age as well as more issues for offspring if they do produce, such as autism and an inferior bone structure or an abnormal brain. From the ages of 40 to 50 most women hit their menopausal cycle in which they no longer produce eggs.

New Addendum

Dawning of the New Parabola

A Sexual Pairing Pattern Study

Übermensch

New societal pressures are making the lower classes spawn more in western countries causing a low birth rate among the clean ethnicities. While this effort is mostly more focused in the USA, it is occurring among the purer races in Europe. The importing of blood by the Canaanites which muddies the bloodlines is done purposefully. This causes the upper classes to become more and more concentrated, returning to this 80/20 naturality. Because of this selective breeding, eugenics is now practiced in excessive scientific methods. Hence the popularity of gene splicing and things like egg freezing or sperm selection. The outcome of this effect is simply that while the upper classes shrink, the middle classes shrink, which creates a new majority of the lower class. This is entirely intended to create a slave labor stratum of the society. This is not based on some sort of political spectrum, but on an abstract meaning of what being an elite is and who controls this term. Which is mostly those of an instantiated family in some industry that controls base resources in an international conglomeration or the banking families. These types were instinctively afraid of the natural selection that would have occurred if mass immigration to the west never occurred.

Hypergamy Breeding Myth

The changing dynamic between the sexes has caused sexual selection in a different manner. It does not actually produce children on average but in minor. It is also highly dysgenic and not symmetric. As stated in my other work, the uninhibited limbic system has now been freed from the reality of survivability. Sexual pleasure is decoupled from reproduction entirely. The romanticized story of a woman finding a higher tier man to secretly reproduce with whilst sustaining a relationship with a lower tier man does not exist. These women tend to hop from one high tier man to the next without reproduction and forces them to mate with a low tier man and foster a relationship with him, which produces a child. The very miniscule number of stories that blow up on social media of women having a child with another man they perceive to be higher is completely diminished by the number of children produced by high tier women with low tier men. This is not a defense of women who are disloyal, but simply a rebuttal to the situation we see in most mating patterns. The advent of birth control measures ensures this completely. This is also in tandem with affecting the number of births among the higher tier females, because they are producing less children, it is more the case that now higher tier males are breeding with lower tier females. I don't mean any of this in production skill or intelligence but simply that of physiognomy. Not only are we creating a dumber population but we are creating an uglier population.

An Outraging Lower Society

The current model in the world that dominates politics is not of the lower IQ, but the masses who believe in democracy; The so-called mid-wit class. Democracy has always been the rule of the majority, making the average of the bell curve parabola the real "ruling class". The people on either side of this curve merely influence it because of their "loud minority" voices. Mid-wits cater to both sides, but do not ever cater to themselves. This is the real plight of the mid-wit. They cannot think for themselves due to their overly engaged emotions on either side. The only true way to end such a tyranny is to gradually make the mid-wit class smaller by combining the upper and lower parts to make a bigger majority in an ideological political party. The mid-wits will be forced to join with something that is closer to reality or be excised into a fringe party like the current day democratic party in the USA which is highly dominated by progressive mid-wit liberals.

Alpha Male Regret

The endless YouTube content on this apparent lack of masculinity is perpetuated by the upper tier of men in society; Not by those who are part of the under classes. The reason is because they now regret participating in the unending carousel themselves in these hypergamic rituals. They blame their top tier female counterparts in this engagement instead of the real Canaanite enemy. This is in part by design of the divide and conquer strategy employed by the Canaanites. There is a call to return to normalcy by these top tier males only because they are finding that in their old age they are having to survive alone. They are just as lonely as the eternal cat females, though men survive easier on their own. Because of the new age of birth control and feminism they cannot simply spread their seed in these hypergamic rituals. It prevents the overall natural monkey brain from reproduction and instead controls for intelligence overall. The so-called markers that most high tier men embody are no longer actually selected for in the majority: Height, broad shoulders, developed facial features and penile length and girth; These are merely now sexual traits instead of reproduction traits. They are also not selected for in tandem, they can be picked specifically without the others present. The top tier females now perpetuate this as well due to the general ignorance of societal conditions creating this lobotomization of the middle tier. They use the rhetoric of saying choices for them are not as present anymore, because men increasingly reject being masculine or interacting at all with them. This sort of notion clauses their own actions as non-existent, because acknowledgement of their own ego and absolute rejection or disregard to men is lost on them. The brow beating they give to those who would otherwise be on par with them in the SMV scale, is merely a dominance ritual to solidify their pompous absolutism from this situation.

The New Attraction

Because of the hypergamic western culture, the bottom and middle tier males and females search for their salvation in the east. Both searching for a reprieve from the insanity of the sexual war occurring between the top tiers of the sexes. This overclass enforcing these views on those under them and on societal culture has created a new sexual age. Males have become entranced with Asia and females have become obsessed with Africa or South America. This is also an effect of chemical imbalances in the brain, as stated before the cortisol levels in the prefrontal cortexes of both sexes are significantly increased. These can be traced back to new medicines used during the birthing process and which are prolonged by chemicals taken in modern birth control and extreme hormones in the food distributed. Or simply in stress levels due to confinement of new societal rules that seem to only apply to the middle and lower strata of the sexes. This is inherently unnatural because exotic taste is not seen as regular in the old world. Mating outside of a tribe is something that had to be forced among populations through different coercive methods.

Rejection Round Robin

When females are rejected, it is an abnormality in current culture. They are typically worshipped and expected to be a scarce resource. But now they have made themselves a hollow resource. As prostitution has come back into fashion and generally becoming pin-up models for a much wider audience, due to the mental illness of being chronically online. The female resource is now cheap and is easily bought. Though not in the classical meaning of child birth or a general feminine support system, but in a purely limbic system impulse goal. The overall effect of this has caused a significant decrease in the market value of most females. Now, this does not actually raise the market value of the females who did not participate in the prostitution or “modeling” culture. Because now they are artificially boosted in ego. They effectively make themselves less accessible, because they perceive themselves to be worth more. This creates and even more closed off market, which in turn creates more men who will buy into the market of prostitution and sexual temptation.

In this consistent game of round robin rejection, the only action that produces an outcome which incrementally benefits society is to take part into what I term “ritual pregnancy”. In which the interaction is purely for the mating process and then the eventual rejection is initiated by either party. Depending on the initiation of rejection by which party and at what time creates a specific kind of child. One who is more feral and uninhibited.